

Laurel Prize for Excellence in Pharmacy

Purpose and Criteria

The Laurel Prize for Excellence in Pharmacy is an annual award donated by Jerold Chu and Kevin Sin, previous Senior Representatives of the Canadian Association of Pharmacy Students and Interns (CAPSI) at the University of British Columbia. This prize recognizes a pharmacy student for their involvement in student affairs, leadership skills, and commitment to advocacy.

The recipient will receive a monetary award and will also be recognized on an engraved plaque within the Faculty of Pharmaceutical Sciences.

Eligibility

The award is open to any active student member of CAPSI from the University of British Columbia, including those on the executive council.

Please note that the award may not be granted every year depending on the number of applicants and the quality of the submissions.

Submission Details

Please submit completed application forms to laurel.prize@gmail.com with the applicant's name in the subject line.

All applications must be received by the end of November 30, 2020.

Applicant's Information

First Name

Last Name

Email Address

Graduating Year

1. Describe your involvement or membership in any pharmacy organizations (500 words maximum):

2. Describe your role in any activities that demonstrated leadership (500 words maximum):

3. Describe how you have advocated for the profession of pharmacy (500 words maximum):